1 Manantiales-Llanos de la Pez

Go Avenida Tinamar (aborigin name for San Mateo) up to Street Palma, this till its end at the main road (to Telde). Here starts the walk signed by blue fletches and points. Walking upwards cross the main road 2 times, then , at 4 Caminos(Houses and school in ocre) follow it righthand 100m under trees till next bifurcation, there straight on to Asomada. Passing an shop after 100m go lefthand a small street built with concrete. In the turn go straight on upwards the path, which after 200m will join in a turn of the street to Camaretas. Following it 300m, after un turn leave it lefthand by an well paved path. After 1, 2 km it will run into an unpaved street which is to follow till an bifurcation with another one. There go the path crossing it. This path ends at an white concrete post at an unpaved street, which is to follow straight on to the pink Casas Ingleses (the Las Palmas Water Works had been founded by British Merchands). Before reaching it go an concrete-built street righthand at an waste-container upwards to its end. At the last house righthand starts a path, which goes at the rearside of the house upwards (righthand). At the highest field it turns strongly lefthand, crossing ginista areas. Later it goes in the bottom of an barranco upwards for 200m, then it passes other ginista area horizontally. Out of the forest, it passes cactus and you have fine views. At a pine it turns left, slowly descending between fields, meadows, apple-trees and walnuts. Entering the forest it ends at an unpaved street, which ends at an reservoir. Follow the path straight on, passing an source, it goes passed 2 small bottoms upwards to the ginesta area. Going upwards, passing an clear with an house without roof it reaches acueduct out of use. Follow it till its start, where you can see the street at the slope in front of zou. To reach it, cross the ginesta descending first an later upwards. Follow this unpaved street-which soon unite an other -straight on upwards. 1, 5 km later you reach the crossing of some roads, which is to cross to go an private street in front of you. It brings you beside an apple-tree plantation to the hunters Monument(left are the breeding installations for partridges) . Here starts an paved walk descending, follow it straight on. Later it descends in zigzag in an ginesta area to the road. (going the road straight on, you will reach the bus stop Cruz de Tejada within 35 min). Follow the road righthand upwards till lefthand, at an drinking through, leave it going downwards the unpaved street straight on. It ends at the entry to an pumping house. Pass it and the following apple-tree area, you reach by an footpath some willows and an old stable. Going through ginestra areas downwards you come to an well. The path passes beside the fence of an apple tree plantation, later besides an small wall downwards. At some pines it reaches un unpaved street, you follow it righthand, later straight on downwards. So you arrive at the road to Cueva Grande; you cross it going downwards the abridgement to San Mateo. It crosses again and again the main road end ends behind the restaurant "Raiz del Verol" in the El Retiro quarter of San Mateo.
